MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 1, 1862.

The Election.

To-day an election takes place in the Fire Department of this city for Chief and two Assistant Engineers, and notwithstanding the fact that we have seen but little feeling manifested by our citizens generally as to the results, yet there is perhaps no election in which our people are more deeply concerned and should feel more lively interest than the election of officers to superintend, control and direct the Fire Department of the city. The office of Chief Engineer is an important and responsible one, as the safety of the property of many of our citizens from the devouring element depends upon a well regulated and efficient Fire Department, and this efficiency depends much upon the proper management of the several Companies under the direction of their Chief.

The citizens of Portland have consented to pay a large tax for the support and maintenance of a Fire Department, and while this tax has been cheerfully paid because of the benefits expected to accrue therefrom, they have a right to claim that those who form themselves into Fire Companies and take upon themselves the arduous and responsible duties thereof, will so manage and conduct the affairs of such Companies, and the whole, combined as shall best secure these benefits and render perfect, or as nearly so as possible, the efficiency and permanency of this institution.

It is with much pride and satisfaction that we proclaim, thus far the Fire Department of Portland has been an efficient, energetic and well regulated institution, doing much good and inspiring our people with confident security against the ravages of a dreadful enemy.

The Fire Department of Portland has now been organized about eight, and notwithstanding the fact that very many alarms and fair starts for fires have occurred, and the further fact that hundreds of houses are but dry old shells, fit only for the torch of an incendiary, or ready like tinder to flash in an instant into flames from the touch of a match, yet up to the present no loss of any importance has occurred in consequence of fire. Not a single building of much value has been destroyed and not but a few dollars worth of property destroyed. Our city has been remarkably free from fires and in no instance has an alarm been given but what prompt and energetic effort was made by our firemen to extinguish the flames, and success has crowned their efforts in almost every instance.—Portland may well boast of her firemen. And while we boast of what has been done, let us hope that this excellence may continue in the future. We have an ernest that it will, from the past, still unless our citizens continue to use all necessary efforts to sustain, uphold, assist and protect the various Companies, and the members of the Fire Department continue their active, energetic vigilance and watchfulness, both over the flames of fire and their own actions, we cannot expect that such security and efficiency will contribute to the praise of the Portland Fire Department much longer.

We have heard of but two candidates for Chief Engineer, Mr. William Dellinger and our former efficient and popular Chief, Mr. Joseph Webber. Relative to the merits or special claims of these gentlemen for the position it is not perhaps our province to speak, but we will say that so far as we are acquainted, either of them would please us, believing them to be competent and trustworthy. Of Mr. Dellinger we know but little, further than that he is a gentleman and bears the reputation of being a good and energetic fireman. Mr. Webber, or "Joe," as he is more familiarly termed by the "boys," has proven himself to be a very popular and efficient Chief. He has served in this capacity for two years past, and his acts have universally met the approbation of everyone acquainted with the affairs of the Fire Department. There is also another fact connected with his services as Chief which should entitle him to the consideration of the members of the Department in their choice to be decided to-day, to-wit: that heretofore no salary or emoluments have been allowed the Chief for his services, hence fairness and justice would dictate that those who have faithfully served the public at considerable cost in time and money to themselves, should not be cast off at a time when there is a chance to obtain a salary and another placed in possession of the office. "Joe" has faithfully discharged the duties of Chief Engineer for the past two years without receiving a cent from the public treasury to remunerate him for expenses and time lost; now a salary of $300 is attached to the office, and we are free to say that he should be allowed the privilege of holding the position for another year that he may receive at least a small reward for his faithfulness and honesty.

That considerable feeling will be manifest among the members of the Department at the polls to-day is quite probable, but we sincerely hope that the credit and good name heretofore enjoyed by our firemen for good order and peaceable conduct will not be violated by any one. We hope that those who are entitled to vote at this election will go up to the polls and quietly deposit their votes unmolested and undisturbed, like law-abiding and peaceable citizens. It is supposed that about 150 votes will be polled, and a plurality of votes, we believe, elects.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Fredericksburg people are just hearing the fire. Owing to a misunderstanding, a train leaving the city with women and children had Dix fired into. Fortunately no one was hurt. There had been a bombardment of Fredericksburg. An impression prevailed yesterday and to-day, that Earl's and McCall's divisions of Banks's corps were advancing on Washington, and that arrived at Lee's Corps.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A dispatch to the Herald says the rebels are in occupation of Fredericksburg, deserted that city and have resolved the question of surrender. Friday night, after an interview with the civil authorities, Gen. Sumner informed them that if they had any further communication to present, Gen. Patrick would hear them, Saturday, the Mayor and Council came over, accompanied by Gen. Kershaw, of South Carolina, and Col. Blunt. These officers claimed that the civil authorities could make no proposition unless the same were accepted by them.

The civil authorities then asked an extension of time for the removal of women and children, stating that as artillery and flight could not be transported, it would be impossible for them to leave before night. The request was complied with, and the time was extended to 11 o'clock Sunday forenoon. No lights were visible in the rebel lines Saturday night, but camp fires in the vicinity indicated the presence of a considerable force. The enemy have evidently received reinforcements to replace losses.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A letter from Fernandina, Fla., gives an account of the bombardment of St. Marys, Georgia, which says our troops landed and were fired on by rebels who mustered strongly, when upon the gunboat "Mohawk" fired shells into the town for twenty minutes. A female, bearing a flag of truce, approached the gunboat and a Lieutenant went ashore to meet her. On his return the boat hauled off, to return to Fernandina, when the rebels fired a volley of musketry. The gunboat immediately returned a part of the town, and shelled it for an hour and a half, reducing half the place to ashes.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—The Democrat has information that the rebels are fortifying Port Hudson. Ten or twelve guns are now in position.

CARSON, Nov. 24.—Gen. Mason was shot dead last night, and robbed of a watch and $350. Several persons were arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24th.—Some excitement was occasioned this evening near scene of shooting affair, of a number of sporting men known to be armed and prepared for a desperate fight. A large police force was detailed to prevent further hostilities. McNabb is still alive with some hopes of recovery.

RUBY VALLEY, Nov. 24th.—By information received from Herder's Camp, 25 miles below the Fort, we learn that the Government herd of horses were driven off by a large band of Indians. They also killed some cattle. Maj. Gallagher and Capt. Potts, with 60 footmen, started in pursuit yesterday. There is no cavalry at this post.

The Very Latest.

FORTRESS MONROE, Nov. 23.—Richmond papers say nearly $100,000 worth of tobacco was destroyed by the Confederates at Fredericksburg. Gen. Lee has ordered all the women and children to leave the place, it being determined to hold it.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 24.—It is rumored that the rebels are hurrying siege guns to Murfreesboro. The rebel force between Chattanooga and Murfreesboro is said to be 50,000.

AQUIA CREEK, Nov. 24.—Reports from Burnside's army, to-day, represent everything quiet at Fredericksburg. It has not yet been shelled.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The steamship Ariel from Aspinwall has arrived. A Panama letter states that on the 15th of October, President Bucha opened batteries upon the city of La Paz. The next day, after a severe fight of six hours, his troops carried the town by storm, with a loss of 300 killed and wounded. Gen. Perez, and other rebels, escaped during the night.

CAPE RACE, Nov. 24th.—The steamer Arabia, with dates from Liverpool to 15th, and Queenstown to the 16th, has arrived. The English Government dissented from the French proposition for mediation. The London Gazette publishes Earl Russell's official reply, dated Oct. 30th. It recapitulates the circular of De Lavalette, proposing mediation; recognizes the humane views and benevolent intentions of the Emperor, but observes that the concurrence of Russia would be expressly desirable; but up to the present time the Russian Government has not agreed to co-operate, although it may support the policy of England and France.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25th.—Tribune's Aquia creek correspondent says our army rests on a line from Stafford Court House to the Rappahannock.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25th.—Times' correspondent at Sigel's camp, says information received last night leave no room for further doubt that the entire northern part of Virginia has been abandoned by the rebels. This correspondent asserts that Jackson has gone to Richmond, while the Harper's Ferry correspondent of the Herald says, news from Jackson as late as Saturday state that his headquarters was at Berryville, and his force 30,000, with 60 guns. Friday evening Jackson is said to have received a telegram from Jeff Davis, saying, "If you don't leave the valley at once and come and help us defend Richmond, it will not be worth your while to come at all."—Jackson's reply is not known. This was the fourth dispatch Jackson had received from Davis, calling on him to come to the defense of Richmond.

Washington, Nov. 25th.—Jeff. Davis has ordered Gen. Holmes, commanding the trans-Mississippi department, to inquire into the truth of statements published some weeks ago, regarding the shooting of ten Confederates in Missouri by Gen. McNeil, and if found to be true, he is to demand the immediate surrender of McNeil to the Confederate authorities. If this is not complied with, he is ordered to hang the first ten United States officers who fall into his hands.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The Fredericksburg Herald, of the 21st, says on Wednesday and Thursday, the Potomac near Aquia Creek, was covered with vessels of all kinds, mainly transports. That they were intended to carry off the army, is the opinion entertained by many.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25th.—On the subject of movements of the Federal army, referred to in Washington dispatches, the Philadelphia Press says: "The military authorities at Washington have determined to make a diversion in a different quarter from that now occupied by the Army of the Potomac.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23d.—A dispatch from the headquarters of the army, dated November 22d, says: Last night was a busy time in Fredericksburg, in removing the inhabitants. The military authorities also were not idle, as daylight this morning revealed a line of earthworks to the right and rear of the town as a result of the night's labors. Our artillery is now being placed in the most favorable positions, while the encampments which are within range of the enemy's guns are being removed further back, from the river. There are, apparently, very strong reasons for our not opening upon the city to-day, unless forced to do so by the enemy. The rebels have just fired a few shots, but no response has yet been made.

LEGISLATIVE.—The Legislature of Washington Territory met to-day at Olympia, the Capital of the Territory. By private letter from that place of recent date, we learn that most of the members had arrived and an organization may be expected by to-morrow afternoon, if not earlier. The Legislature is composed of thirty members of the House and nine members of the Council. Several prominent gentlemen are candidates for the presiding Chair, among whom we have heard Hon. J. L. Ferguson, T. M. Reed, T. D. Bagley and ——— Hunt, for Speaker of the House, and Hon's Wm. K. Hubbard, O. B. McFadden and J. M. Moore, for President of the Council. We are also informed that numerous small fry are on hand for the minor offices, but as yet there is no telling who will be the lucky ones. We expect to receive regular reports of their proceedings, much of which will be of interest to the people of this State, and especially those East of the mountains. Several important measures are expected to be introduced, among which is the removal of the Capital, and the division of the Territory. We may expect a stormy Session, but we hope that its last days may be fair and serene, bright and productive of much good to the people of our native Territory.

A letter from Asheville to the Mobile News says Holly Springs was evacuated by consent of all the rebel Generals. They didn't consider it a tenable point. They are preparing Winter quarters at Asheville, and think it highly improbable that the Federals will attack them there. This correspondent affirms that one-third of the army are without blankets. He also says the army is half naked.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

CITY REVENUE.—We publish this morning the ordinance passed at the last Session of the City Council, for the levying and collection of revenue for the fiscal year of 1862-3. By this it will be seen that the City Council have levied a tax of three mills on the dollar for general expenses, and one mill on the dollar for the special purpose of paying the indebtedness of last year. The City Assessor returned a total of two and a half million dollars of taxable property in the city for this year, which, if collected, will bring to the city a revenue of $7,500. In addition to this it is probable that the revenue derived from licenses, fines, &c., will amount to about $6000 more, making the sum total for general expenses $13,500. The one mill tax will bring $2,500, which will not probably pay the indebtedness, entirely. We would, in connection with this matter, call the attention of tax payers to the notice of the City Tax Collector as published this morning, and hope that each and all interested will pay due heed thereto. We deem it unnecessary to say more at this time of our city affairs, as we have before called the attention of our citizens to this matter. We shall probably have something more to say about our streets at the proper time.

SAILS.—The Sierra Nevada is advertised to sail from this City on Tuesday evening, (to-morrow) for San Francisco, via Victoria.

CHANGE OF TIME.—From and after to-day the time allowed from Sacramento to this city for the overland stage arrivals, will be changed to twelve instead of eight days.

NOTICE.—See notice of United States Assessor in another column. All persons liable to pay taxes are interested, or should be, to know that their assessments are correct.

Some kinds of this work is recommended above all others, and needs but an inspection to prove its superiority for cleanliness, durability and life-like appearance to any artificial teeth in use.

Filling and cleaning teeth, and all operations in Dental Surgery, either mechanical, operative or surgical, performed in the most thorough and highly finished manner. None but the most permanent and finished operations performed, and no inducements to patients by low priced or roughly finished operations. IF YOU LOVE YOUR COUNTRY, encourage Home Productions. Why will you send abroad for wretchedly spurious articles, when you can have the good and true and beautiful of Oregon material and Oregon workmanship close at your very doors!

Why impoverish your country and its mechanics by the calculations of Prejudice, or by parsimonious misdirection?

HORATIO COOKE & CO.,

Corner of Alder and Second sts., Portland,

Have now on hand and are steadily constantly increasing a Large Stock of of Oregon Material and Oregon Workmanship.

The following articles will be found to be part of their stock:

ARM CHAIRS, CRADLES,

Other articles, too numerous to mention, either on hand or made to order.

The superscribers would modestly infer to the most gracious public of the State of Oregon that they would gladly exchange any or all of the above articles for "READY MONEY," or any other article of commerce that will by the conveyance give pleasurable sensations to the high contracting parties.

The life spring of trade, "READY CASH,"

No matter in which way we show it,

SEWING MACHINES

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order, should make a stitch alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should use all the size cotton, thread, or silk directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine and from thick to thin, with requisite, and without change of the tension. It should also be able to make the tension great or less, on both the under and upper threads and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; cannot sew being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer; shirr, stitch, full, run and gather; and should be always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread on silk, alike on both, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch and to run easy, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.

A Story of Counterparts.

(Concluded.)

An elderly gentleman, supporting himself by a cane, now came forward and saluted me as his "dear son," cutting short everything I attempted to say by his joyful volubility.

The folding doors separating the sitting-room and parlors, were thrown apart. I heard the subdued hum of voices, the rustling of heavy silks, and, waiting in the adjoining room in an east window, I saw a clergyman in gown and bands.

The elderly gentleman took the hand of the dark haired Alice, as I placed it in mine.

"Take her," he said, with emotion, "and may God prosper you. We will have the most important thing first, and dispose afterward. The guests are already getting impatient."

I glanced at Alice's dress. It was bridal white; and her beautiful hair was crowned with a wreath of orange blossoms.

The sight gave me a tremor. I felt weak and faint. My pallor must have alarmed Alice, for she clutched my arm wildly, and gazed into my face with painful anxiety.

"What is it, Richard? Are you ill? Merciful heavens! Helen, look at him! He is ill!"

"It is nothing—nothing!" I gasped.—"Only I cannot—cannot marry you! I—"

"Oh, heaven!" cried Alice, in horrible dismay; and seeing she was about to fall, I flung my arm around her for support.

At this moment the hall door was opened; and turning at the sound, I saw, with my own eyes, my second self enter the room! My exact counterpart. Richard Smith, number two.

His fierce eyes took in the scene at one sweeping glance. He rushed toward me with a wild ejaculation, and, tearing the half-fainting Alice from my arms, he planted his firm grasp on my throat. I put my hand on the same locality of his body.

"What are you doing!" he thundered in my ear.

"What are you doing?" I thundered, in response.

"Your life shall pay the forfeit!" he exclaimed, with mad violence. "The man who has dared to win Alice Hereford's love shall die!"

"Gentlemen," interrupted the sweet voice of her whom they had called Helen, "be patient; there is some mistake. Which of you is named Richard Smith?"

"I am," replied I.

"I am," replied my counterpart.

"But which of you is Richard Smith!—the son of Archibald Smith?"

"I am," said my second self.

"And I am not," said I; "my father was named Robert."

Helen looked at me a moment, half in doubt, evidently how to treat me after what had occurred. Finally she held out her hand:

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Smith; it was all a careless mistake of my own. Can you forgive me?"

I thought of the kisses she had given me, and wished the same mistake might be made over again, though I was wise enough not to make known my wish.

"Let me explain," she continued frankly. "We were expecting my brother Richard home from the south, where he has been for some four or five months past, and were quite sure that he would arrive on the train which brought you. He had been for some years engaged to Miss Hereford, and the marriage ceremony was to take place immediately on his arrival. I went down to the depot to welcome him, and because of the striking similitude in your respective personal appearance, I mistook a stranger for my brother. That is all. Brother Richard, Mr. Smith is entirely blameless of any wrong. We gave him no time for explanation. Let me present you to each other as friends."

My counterpart shook hands with me, and begged my pardon for dislocating my neck tie. I granted it and begged his pardon for committing a like depredation on his neck tie. And then, at a sign from the elderly gentleman, we all walked into the drawing room, where, in a brief space of time, my counterpart was made the husband of the blushing Alice.

The acquaintance so singularly begun with the Smith family, soon ripened into friendship, and became one of the most precious of life's blessings to me.

Helen Smith had kissed me, and she could not forget it. If a man can get a woman to think of him—it hardly matters in what way—he has a claim to her; it was so in my case. I believe that I never met Helen but she blushed at the memory which stole over her.

Three months after our first meeting, she kissed me again and called me "Dear Richard." And this time she was well aware that she was not addressing her brother.

Is it a fortunate, or an unfortunate thing, to have a counterpart? When I think of the boarding house keeper, I say "No;" but when I look at Helen, and recall the circumstances of our introduction, I am accustomed to say "Yes."

WHAT IS AN ABOLITIONIST?—This question is very satisfactorily answered by the highest Richmond authority—the well known Southern Literary Messenger. Listen: "An Abolitionist is any man who does not love slavery for its own sake, as a divine institution; who does not worship it as a corner stone of civil liberty; who does not adore it as the only possible social condition on which a permanent republican government can be created; and who does not in his inmost soul desire to see it extended and perpetuated over the whole earth as a means of human reformation second in dignity, importance and sacredness to the Christian religion. He who does not love African slavery with this love is an Abolitionist." When, therefore, the rebels of the South, and flippant presses of the North, inveigh so bitterly against 'Abolitionists,' we can now determine what they mean.

WASHINGTON, November 17th.—The bids for thirteen and a half millions of seven and three-tenths bonds were opened and the result announced by the Secretary of the Treasury this afternoon. There was an unusually large number of biddes and other persons present. imum offers were from a hundred and three The minimum successful offers were a fraction over a hundred and three per cent.—The maximum offers were from a hundred and three and sixty-two hundredths to a hundred and four per cent. Only about two millions were awarded at the minimum rate. This fact demonstrates the continued high confidence reposed in the public credit, and leaves no doubt of the ability of the Government to command ample means for the prosecution of the war.

MCCLELLAN'S HEADQUARTERS.—At the time of Stuart's raid the rebels passed only five or six miles from McClellan's headquarters, but Stuart did not know what a prize he might have secured. The next day the headquarters were removed.

Artemus Ward says: "If I am drafted I shall resign. Deeply grateful for the unexpected honor thus conferred upon me, I shall feel compelled to resign the position in favor of some more worthy person. Modesty is what gils me. That's what's keeping me under."

THE PRESIDENT AND GEN. MCCLELLAN.—George Wilkes, who has the good fraund of Gen. McClellan, who, in his letters to the Spirit, characterized him as a second edition of the great Napoleon, himself began to feel it will be remembered, after his delay of four months at and at Washington, and was the first among the first, to assert that his pet was a failure. And he did this with a vim and power, for George is not only a pleasant but is also a forcible writer. As those who have read the Frederick proclamation of the Wilkes was here then, and was acquainted with its author-ship. Well, George writes a long letter relative to the course of his General, in which he discloses some important facts heretofore unknown to the public and which may be summed up thus: Seward and Blair have for a long time been McClellan's ugly supporters in the Cabinet. Wilkes shrugs his shoulders as it to say, "I have done my duty. He would have been impeached ere this had I not been restrained," and the President tells how Stuart ran three times round him and escaped unharmed, but from the universal verdict of military men is convinced that when a true soldier is ready for the place the bogus Caesar should be put aside. The President is sure over the Stuart raid. He assumed the responsibility of ignoring McClellan after his peninsula failure, and was anxious that he should justify the act, but the battle of Antietam, where with double troops to the enemy, he permitted them to escape, and his subsequent delay at Sharpsburg, aroused the President. He had gone to the camp in bearer of the unanimous desire of the Government that McClellan should follow Lee. They were alone in the tent, and no one allowed to approach within forty paces—yet what passed is known. The President told the General the decision of the Cabinet, and then on his own responsibility added:

"Now McClellan, I wish to call attention to a fault in your character—a fault which is the sum of my observation in war, in connection with this war. You merely get yourself ready to do a good thing—no man can do that better; you make all the necessary sacrifices of blood and time and treasure to secure a victory, but whether from timidity or self-distrust, or some other motive inexplicable to me, you always stop short just on this side of results. Such has been your history throughout the war! This is my own remark, and I wish you, when I am gone, to examine yourself and see if this is not true."

Subsequent thereto, Stuart was allowed to make his raid and cross the Potomac in safety, although there was a regiment within three miles of his crossing, and 10,000 troops within fifteen miles of it. Yet General Pleasanton's cavalry was the only force that attempted to intercept the rebels.—Ex.

Orpheous C. Kerr thus touches the political demagogues who look more to the invidious distinctions of any one class of our citizens, rather than award merit for patriotism:

It is the "Union as it was" that we want, my boy, and those who have other articles to sell are hereby accused of being accursed abolitionists. I was talking the other day to a venerable Congressman from Maryland, who had just arrived to protest against the disturbance of mail facilities between Baltimore and the capital of the Southern Confederacy, and says he, "I have several friends who are Confederacies, and they inform me that they are every one perfectly willing to return to the Union as it was, in case they should fail in their present enterprise. If I thought," says the Congressman, hastily placing a lottery ticket in his vest pocket, "if I thought this war was being waged for the purpose of injuring the Southern Confederacy, rather than restore the Union as it was, I should at once demand more mileage of the Government, and repeatedly inquire what had become of all the Wide-awakes."

As he uttered the last horrible threat, my boy, I was impressed with a scene of something darkly Democratic.

Too many of the Wide-awakes of the last campaign are indeed fast-asleep now, when their country needs them. I saw one of them slumbering near Culpepper Court House last week. He was sleeping with his right arm twisted in the spokes of a disabled cannon-wheel, and a small purple mark was on his right temple. But he was not alone in his forgetful sloth, my boy, for near him, and rigidly grasping his disengaged hand, was a Democrat, slumbering too!

The sight, I remember, rendered me so honestly indignant that I could not help pointing it out to the chaplain. The chaplain looked a moment at the Fusion Ticket before us.

"They sleep for the Flag," says he, softly, "and may its stars shed pleasant dreams upon their loyal souls forever."

At the time of Stuart's raid the rebels passed only five or six miles from McClellan's headquarters, but Stuart did not know what a prize he might have secured. The next day the headquarters were removed.

The number of deaths occurring annually in England as the result of accidents caused by wearing crinoline, is given at 750.

The rebel Maury, late Superintendent of the Naval Observatory, at Washington, escaped on a Charleston packet and reached Bermuda. He is said to have gone to Europe as one of Jeff.'s agents.

ANECDOTE OF WORDSWORTH AND LAMB.—Wordsworth thought disparagingly of Shakspeare, and said in a letter that he could write like him if he had a mind to. "That's it," said Lamb, "he could, if he had a mind to."

HOOP SKIRTS.—The latest style of hoop skirt is the grand self-adjusting, double-back-action bustle, etruscan lace expansion, spiral Piccolomini attachment, gossamer indestructible! It is a "love of a thing."

THE FIRE AT HARPER'S FERRY.—The late fire at Harper's Ferry occurred in this manner: Some of the teamsters were cooking dinner under the trestle work in the vicinity of the point where immense quantities of hay were being unloaded from the cars. The flames communicated to several hundred bales of hay, and soon enveloped twenty-four cars, loaded with hay, on the trestle work. Fearing that the burning cars would communicate the flames to the bridge, a locomotive was attached, and they were instantly run across to the Maryland side, where they soon burned up. Upwards of five hundred feet of trestle work was destroyed, but the bridge was saved. This is the fourth time these extensive trestles have been burned during the war. There were twenty-four cars in all destroyed, with their contents. The total loss by fire cannot be less than from seventy-five to one hundred thousand dollars.

Laws of the United States.

Passed at the Second Session of the Thirty-seventh Congress.

(PUBLIC—No. 161.)

An act to facilitate Judicial Proceedings in Admiralty and upon Captured Property, and for the better Administration of the Law of Prize.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That whenever any property captured as prize shall be brought into any district of the United States for adjudication, it shall be the duty of the prize commissioners for such district forthwith to receive, safely and safely keep the same, until process shall be issued out of the court, under which the same shall be placed in the custody of the marshal of such district. It shall be the further duty of said prize commissioners, at the time of taking such possession, and from time to time pending the adjudication, to examine into the condition of said property, and report to the court the same, or any part thereof, so liable to perish, or deteriorating in value; and if the same be found by the court, upon said report or otherwise, to be the court may thereupon order an interlocutory sale thereof by the United States marshal, and the disposal of the gross proceeds of such sale on the register of the court to abide the further order of the court, whether a claim to said property has or has not been interposed. It shall be the further duty of the said prize commissioners to receive into their office all the papers and documents, and testimony, securely to seal with their seals, and to keep in inviolable deposit in the registry of the court, and thereafter, promptly and without unnecessary delay, the court shall proceed to hearing and adjudication.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That all reasonable and proper claims, said charges for pilotage, towage, wharfage, storage, insurance, and other expenses incident to the bringing in and safe custody and sale of the property captured as prize, shall be a charge upon the same, and having been audited and allowed by the court, shall, in event of a decree of condemnation or of restitution on payment of costs, be paid out of the proceeds of any sale of the property, final or interlocutory, in the custody of the court. In case of a decree of restitution upon payment of costs, where no sale has been made, such charges and expenses shall constitute part of said costs to be paid by the claimant.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the prize commissioners, and also the district attorney acting for the United States, and the counsel for the captors, shall be entitled to receive a just and suitable compensation for their several and respective services in each prize case or proceeding; and the same shall be adjusted and determined by the court upon due consideration of the facts and circumstances of each case and of the services actually rendered therein; and the same, when so adjusted, shall, in case of the final condemnation or restitution on payment of costs, be paid out of the proceeds of the prize property in the custody of the court, or when no sale has been made in whole or in part, as the court may direct by the claimant.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That whenever a final decree of condemnation of property captured as prize shall have been made, unless an interlocutory sale has been made as hereinbefore provided for, the property shall be sold by the United States marshal pursuant to the practice and proceedings in admiralty, and the gross proceeds of such sale shall be forthwith deposited in court; and thereupon the prize commissioners shall proceed, under the direction of the court, to the end that a final decree shall be made determining what public ships of the United States are entitled to share in the prize, and whether the prize was of superior, equal, or inferior force to the vessel by vessels making the capture, and within thirty days after the entry of the same the clerk of the court shall transmit to the Treasury of the United States the money so deposited in court, together with a certified copy of the said decree, after deducting from said moneys the costs of court and the charges and expenses hereinbefore provided for.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the provisions of this act shall apply as well to cases now pending as to all future cases of maritime captures, and to captures and seizures made under the laws for the abolition of the slave trade; and all laws and parts of laws inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Approved, March 2d, 1862.

(PUBLIC ACT—No. 65.)

An Act to secure to the Officers and Men actually employed in the Western Department, or Department of Missouri, their Pay, Bounty, and Pension.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of War be, and he is hereby, authorized and required to allow and pay to the officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians, and privates who have been heretofore actually employed in the military service of the United States, whether mustered into actual service or not, where their services were accepted and actually employed by the generals who have been in command of the department of the West, or the department of the Missouri, the pay and bounty as in cases of regular enlistment.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians, and privates so employed, who may have been wounded or incapacitated for service, shall be entitled to and receive the pension allowed for such disability: Provided, That the length and character of their enlistment and service be such as to entitle them under existing laws to such pension.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the heirs of those killed in battle, or of those who may have died from wounds received while in the service, shall be entitled to receive the bounty and pay to which they would have been entitled had they been regularly mustered into service: Provided, That the bounty and pay referred to in this act shall not be payable unless their term of enlistment and service be of such duration as to entitle them to receive the same, according to existing laws.

Approved, March 25, 1862.

FIELD'S STEAMED OYSTERS!

MR. A. FIELD, whose Oysters have long enjoyed the highest reputation in this market, has recently invented an entirely new process of packing which possesses every advantage over the one hitherto employed. It so preserves the natural flavor, freshness and shape of the Oyster that they may be either Stewed, Fried, Scolloped or Fancy Roasted—in fact cooked in any manner adapted to those just taken from the shell. They will not be broken into pieces by land travel, however lengthy, and will retain their sweetness, after the can is cut, longer than secured by any other method.
